The Family Estate Cabernet Sauvignon sees French oak only; this Family Estate Shiraz sees both French and American oak. The difference is obvious. American oak is a keen player here.

In Coonawarra shiraz terms this is bold and assertive. It's more red fruit than black, but it has an intensity and a force to it; a concentration. Plum, mint and a wealth of choc-mint vanilla characters. All that oak doesn't leave much room for complexity, but in terms of filling the mouth with seductive flavour it performs admirably. It can be consumed either young or with quite a deal of bottle age.
